

Faculty of Literature and Foreign Languages

Field 01: Arabic Language and Literature

Division 01: Literary Studies.

Training objectives: pedagogical, scientific, development-related objectives:

Training in this division is of great importance, as it combines theory and practice. This consists in adopting modern vocabulary and pedagogical approaches. Actually, it aims to empower the student with the tools of scientific research in the disciplines of literary studies, as well as to develop the quality of public life by promoting the aesthetic and civilized sense and promoting the civic sense of national identity.

The target competencies and the profile of the student's exit and occupations:

- The ability to analyze, discuss and systematically criticize literary texts.
- Being able to know the literary history of the country as an integral part of the general cultural history.
- Developing the teaching profession of the student.
- Understanding literary criticism methods and knowing how to apply them to any study.
- Developing the student's capabilities in the fields of research and criticism, as this specialization opens the possibility of activating the latent energies of the student so that he can go deeper into what he studies and researches.
- The ability to invest in the modern Arabic literary blog and deal with it.
- The ability to evaluate the literary movement in the modern era and to identify its prominent figures, who contributed to it.

- Mastering the specialization of modern Arabic literature in terms of its poetry and prose.
- Qualifying students to possess the tools of serious academic research, and the modern tools of studying literary blogs.
- Investing in literary criticism curricula and adapting them to applied studies.
- Local and national employment possibilities, and areas of intervention in the professional community:
  - Directorates of education
  - Directorates of Culture and its affiliated sectors.
  - National and regional research centers
- Media and publishing institutions
  - Concluded and possible partnership as well as cooperation agreements with the economic and social environment:
    - The possibility of contracting with educational institutions, cultural associations, publishing corporations and the press
    - The possibility of benefiting from research laboratories at the college or university level
  - Acquiring the ability to create a sound linguistic and literary discourse and improve communication ability.